Import Process & Customs Matters

Braumiller Law Group, PLLC is proud to be a leader in global trade law. If your company conducts international trade, it's necessary to have knowledge regarding the laws within the various countries you may be exporting to, or importing from. Our team of Attorneys and trade Advisors can provide the assistance you may need.

UFLPA Operational Guidance for Importers

CBP has released importer guidance to assist the trade community in preparing for the implementation of the UFLPA rebuttable presumption. Please be aware that this is CBP's importer guidance, which provides transparency to CBP's operational approach, and not the Forced Labor Enforcement Task Force's Strategy, which will provide additional importer guidance, required by the UFLPA.

Import Consulting

Our team of auditors have expertise in the area of identifying risk. Allow us to assist you in navigating the somewhat complex issues regarding the various laws and regulations governing the importation of goods, providing you with an opportunity to minimize duty while increasing compliance. For a 3rd party audit bid contact: bob@braumillerlaw.com

Production Classification

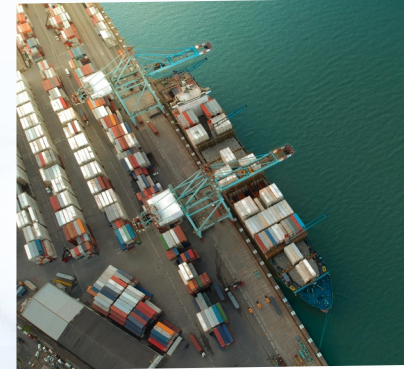

Tariff classification is a key responsibility of importers and quite often the focus of Customs audits. Tariff classification requires knowledge of your product and the application of sometimes complex legal rules, precedents, and procedures. Exercising the proper degree of due diligence can be a daunting task. We break down a product's specific makeup and ensure that the classification is correct according to CBP interpretation.

Valuation Review

Declaring the correct value of goods is critical to the customs entry process. By law (19 U.S.C. §1484), the importer is responsible for using reasonable care to enter, classify and value imported merchandise, and for providing information necessary for Customs to properly assess duties, collect trade statistics and determine whether all other applicable legal requirements have been met.

USMCA and Free Trade Agreements

By thoroughly understanding the business ramifications as well as the legal challenges linked with free trade issues, the attorneys and professionals at Braumiller Law Group can guide clients toward optimal compliance solutions.

Customs Trade Partnership Against Terrorism (CTPAT) & CTPAT Trade Compliance Programs

Customs & Border Protection is a multi-layer cargo strategy that works with the trade community to support and strengthen international supply chains. Participants must apply the Minimum Security Criteria (MSC) which addresses a broad range of security practices across the range of industry partners that qualify for the program.

"Braumiller Law Group, PLLC has not only met the challenges we hired them to do, assist with C-TPAT, but it was a pleasure to work with their staff as well. Their knowledgeable staff proved to be professional and personable. I would highly recommend their services."

Logistics Manager, Major Manufacturer/Importer/Exporter

Retaliatory Tariffs Assistance

The FR Notice came as a result of the Section 301 report that was released earlier last week. In the report, the USTR indicated that President Biden has directed the agency to take a number of actions as a result of China's unfair trade practices. These actions are a direct result of the four-year statutory review by the USTR.

Duty Drawback Recovery

Obtaining the maximum allowable duty drawback refunds and excise tax credits requires skillful guidance, and Braumiller Law Group has a proud history of helping its clients achieve that goal.

- Eligibility and feasibility studies
- Drawback calculations
- Drawback claims and protests
- Negotiations
